

Recent Operations

By Paul Rardin

I'm attending a cooking school this week. That is I'm helping to run one. I've never had much experience before in this particular line but so far it has been a lot of fun.

The first session of The Everglades News Free cooking school was held yesterday afternoon in the Pahokee Woman's club and what a crowd we had. I was agreeably surprised when actual count showed 133 ladies in attendance. Out of that group 30 won beautiful prizes furnished by the local merchants who co-operated with me on the deal.

It's a lot of fun to do something when you can get co-operation like I did on the cooking school. There was Old Joe with his range and refrigerator and the power company was Johnny-on-the-spot with the electrical connection. A whole lot of merchants worked hand in glove in furnishing the many beautiful prizes that we gave to the ladies in attendance.

Who'd ever thought it? Two years ago I was rattling the bushes and pounding pavements looking for votes. Here it is the middle of another campaign and I'm first in line to a home economist in the operation of a cooking school.

Celery Exhibit Is Feature Of Glades Fair In Belle Glade

Lake Region's Newest Crop To Be Given Excellent Display

Howard Hays, president of the Palm Beach County Growers Association, informed Geo. Friedheim, chairman of the Everglades Fair Association that his members had accepted the invitation to exhibit a celery booth in the Everglades Fair.

Mr. Hays said: "Since celery has become a major crop of the Glades, shipping over 1000 cars this season, the Growers will do whatever they can to give celery a prominent place in your Fair. We expect to make out both interesting to the prospective grower as well as to the general public. Our fields this year have as high as 800 packed crates per acre and of a quality comparable to other Florida celery areas."

Preparation of land to a very high degree of perfection, and ease of water control, gives the Glades the most successful celery crop in celery growing. Fertilizer, sprays and cultivation, weigh heavily in favor of the Glades and yield over 800 to 1000 crates per acre, this season, make production cost for quality celery far less than in other celery producing areas. Fortunately, we find the most common type of Glades lands the sawgrass, excellently adapted for the growing of celery. From eight to ten degree lower temperature in the sawgrass allow us to produce a late crop of celery not possible in other celery areas.

Mr. Friedheim said: "We know that many growers from other celery producing areas have been in this community recently for the purpose of locating celery lands and we welcome them. The community needs progressive and substantial citizens and expects those who will show us the practicality of crop diversion."

Landowners Seem Favorable To Plan Of Revamping Dist.

Bond Election Will Be Called By The Supervisors

At a meeting of the supervisors of the Pahokee Drainage District held in Canal Point to discuss proposed $120,000 improvement program for the west unit of the district it was disclosed that owners of 4,000 acres of the 6,000 acres of land involved had signed petitions asking for a referendum vote on a bond issue to carry out the program. Supervisors R. Patterson and W. P. Jernigan, however, postponed setting a definite date for the vote because of the absence of E. G. Johnson, Sr., as unanimity of action is desired.

Ultimate plans of the program call for a new Diesel-powered pump station, which is a more advantageous position than the present pump and a complete renovation of the system of drainage canals and ditches. The first action in lowering the water table during wet weather and the resection of the water table at high level during time of drought.

Since the corporate limits of the City of Pahokee make up 56 per cent of the drainage area of the Pahokee Drainage District, it is of vital importance to the town's future growth that this improvement program be carried out. The supervisors stated. The improved drainage facilities resulting from the proposed program would protect the city to install a modern system of sewage and waste water disposal thus remedying the present flood conditions of certain sections which now require every heavy downpour. City property owners are asked to express their approval of the proposed drainage improvement by signing petitions which are available at the city hall.

Jackard Robinson, district secretary, reports that the Recreation Finance Corporation has agreed to take the proposed program under advisement and the work will probably be done through KFC financing if the bondowners vote for the issuance of bonds.

The project has already ordered these changes there will be no public hearing on the application for the improvement. But those who have objections may file same in writing with the Clewiston or the engineering office of the Engineering Board.

New Ice Plant Soon To Be In Operation To Serve Shippers

Truckers Ice Company To Open In Their New Plant Soon

Work on the new ice plant, to be known as the Truckers Ice Company, which was promoted by R. R. Guise and E. L. Reinhardt, is now entering the finished stage. The new plant is being built in order to get proper footing for the plant foundation some of the 500 piles used in the sub-structure were driven to an unusual depth.

The new frame, metal clad building, covers a space of 5000 feet, and is intended to be a modern ice making plant. The freezing vats will produce ice in the form of blocks, and will be used in the shipping of ice every day. The power plant is equipped with a Diesel engine of 150 horsepower, sufficient to meet present and future demands for some time to come.

Mr. Guise, the president, comes from Gulfport, Miss., and Mr. Reinhardt, comes from Burlington, Wis., and both are men experienced in the ice manufacturing business. These men are largely interested in the financing of the new plant but other Glades investors also contributed to the stock of the incorporated company.

Lake Okeechobee Dike Improvement Work Progresses

Contractors Report Satisfactory Progress On Undertaking

Two years ago the Government spent thousands of dollars in hauling rock from St. Lucie canal section for rip-rapping the shores of the lake from Canal Point to Bacoona, in order to prevent the eroding of the lake shores.

Now, that dike improvements are under way all this rip-rapping has to be torn away, which the government is doing with one of its heavy clam shell dredges. However, the canal locks into the dike being washed, for it is being loaded on barges and towed by boat to Moore Haven where it will again be used on government protection work.

The dike barges of the Army Corps are now working open the dike, the dredges are being used to remove the rip-rapping. The General has dredged southward to a point opposite the Bacoona Automatic Service, and is making satisfactory progress on its contract work.

The government dredge, Watah, is also making progress on that section of the levee improvement which was given up by the Army Corps, and will have that section of the levee improved.

There has been long controversy as to whether or not the Government should make the new canal across the lake between St. Lucie and Caloosahatchee rivers from Port Mayaca to Moore Haven, an eight mile or ten foot depth. The Jacksonville department of the Army Engineers recommended to the Richmond and Washington departments that it be made a right foot channel, and work will progress along that determination.

Great Crowds Hear Francis Whitehair On His State Tour

Drew Largest Crowd Ever To Hear Candidate In Tallahassee

Tallahassee, April 4 (FNS). Jumping to west Florida following the opening of his speaking campaign at Daytona Beach, Francis Whitehair, 38-year-old candidate for governor, drew a large crowd everywhere he appeared.

Referring to Florida a new and refreshing type of campaign speech, Whitehair stirred his listeners as he courageously pointed out the weakness of Florida's government compared to those of sister states and presented a forceful picture of the remedies he intended to propose. His presentation if granted the privilege of serving the people of the state as their chief executive for the next 4 years.

Termining "human beings and their welfare more important than anything else, Whitehair pledged that if he became governor his first act would be to give to the people of Florida a new and improved educational program that would insure for every child a minimum of 12 months pay for teachers, a tenure law that would protect teachers from political interference, ample provision for the care of the state's dependent children and the setting up of a health program for the welfare of our people, which are today subject to the blight of both children and adults in this state.

"The future must and will come first," Whitehair said. "I shall strive that the legislature take care of these important details of the welfare of our people from funds already available."

Speaking throughout the week at Tallahassee, the youthful Florida farmer-school man made a most favorable impression everywhere he appeared. He was well received by the political audience ever to attend political meetings, while smaller communities turned out almost to "stop talking and start doing something about it."

"Are not your children and mine?" he challenged, "entitled to a better future? Let us work together for the children of our sister states. The inadequate education of our children is a shame and disgrace."

Another Session Scheduled For This Afternoon At 2 P. M.

The largest crowd ever to attend such an affair in the Glades was present yesterday afternoon at the first session of The Everglades News cooking school held in the Pahokee Woman's club. Another session is scheduled for 2 p.m. this afternoon at the same location.

Mrs. Helen Weeks Harris, noted home economist, was in charge of the cooking demonstrations and showed the ladies some short cuts in preparing delectable dishes. The first session was one of the most attentive she ever worked before, Mrs. Harris said. The dietary foods prepared by Mrs. Harris were given to those in attendance at the close of the session.

Paul Rardin, publisher of The Everglades News, was master of ceremonies and introduced Mrs. Harris to the ladies. At the close of her part of the program Mr. Rardin again took charge and presented the prizes furnished by local merchants.

The annual convention of International Rotary is to be held in Havana, in June, and thousands of Rotarians are expected to arrive over the world will gather there for that event. Plans are being made to have large attendance from the Florida Rotary clubs, and it is not likely such an occasion will not soon come so handy to this section.

The Rotary club is making a strenuous effort to get all its members, and some of their momentum, to make this trip, and make the trip up and down Cuba, by airplane.

Thurmond Knight is chairman of the Pahokee Rotary club committee, and to date he has three men and two women signed up for the pilgrimage. How they will come is not yet known. ## TOURIST ROOMS

Two gentlemen winter visitors of considerable means but with minds that run rather consistently on economy, checked in early in the season at one of the "better" Greater Miami hotels at the rate of about $18 a day. The rate popped up to $22 a day when the season got full-blown, and about the same time the thermometer popped down to the middle forties.

"And why," one guest complained to the other, "should we pay $22 a day for shivering, I ask you?" While they mulled the matter over, late led them to the hotel's bulletin board listing churches, hospitals, etc.

"Do you see what I see," one asked. "Steam heat! It says so, right here." They dashed to their room, and one called a Greater Miami hospital. His companion gave ear to the conversation, which went something like this:

"You have steam heat, you say—and if I'm able to get around, you will furnish me transportation to any place you want to go—" and three meals a day—all for $8 a day. Say, lady, what are you waiting for? Reserve the two rooms quick!" That's how one $22-a-day hotel lost two guests this season, right in the middle of the "cold spell." — Miami News.

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU

This little piece is addressed to folks who came to Florida for the winter and think they found it. Actually they didn't, comparatively speaking. If South Florida had more nippy days during the past winter than the oldest inhabitant can remember in any single season, so did most of the northern hemisphere.

The press wires continue to carry stories of blizzards and wintry weather in many sections. Winter seems to be lingering in the lap of spring with a vengeance. The moral is plain. Stay a while longer. Florida's springtime glamour will erase any disagreeable memories that refrain of the last two months.

Nowhere is the sun more caressing, the breeze more soothing or the surf more inviting than in this part of Florida during the vernal season.

But to enjoy that kind of weather it is necessary to remain here. You can't take it with you when you go, where the raw winds blow overhead, the mud and slush accumulate underfoot and the pneumonia germs lurk all around.—Palm Beach Post.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

While folks on the east coast may be so busy entertaining tourists they've developed little interest in politics, such is not the case in northwest Florida where I've been browsing around the past week.

Since speaking tours began a few weeks ago, all of the major and most of the minor candidates have traveled the highways and byways west of the Sevens, setting up their sound trucks in public squares or on street corners to preach their particular brand of political gospel.

Public sentiment is beginning to crystallize in the gubernatorial campaign in this area, and I find that Francis Whitehair and Seward Holland are still dominant with Fuller Warren in third place and Fats, Eraser and others trailing, all far below the two outstanding leaders. Last among the candidates to speak in this territory is Francis P. Whitehair. Thanks to his opponent he has been well advertised. Not one person in a thousand knows him personally or has ever seen the man, yet everyone has heard about him and everyone wants to see and hear him. Concentration of fire on the part of other contenders has only served to build him up as a sort of "steep star" who couldn't possibly be as good as he has been painted or on the other hand, as good as his friends and supporters claim.

Whitehair began his speaking tour in this section last week and he has consistently drawn larger crowds than any other candidate. Youthful, vigorous, outspoken, he has electrified audiences wherever he has appeared. He surprised me, along with a lot of other folks, who held the impression that while he could hold his own before a jury or get by as an after dinner speaker at a luncheon club, he would find it difficult to make an impression among the woodchuck boys on the stump. As a campaigner he is head and shoulders above his opponents. At Tallahassee I saw him draw and lead the largest crowd in the lead in Leon county as a result of this one appearance.

Swinging on west he left a trail of enthusiastic converts in every community. Blessed with an infectious smile and a free and easy manner, he proved as much at home with the "overall boys" as with local dignitaries.

While it is still early for any commentator to be popping off as confident as to who his opponent will be, every indication points to Holland at the moment. In spite of the fact that Rev. Barber and Brother Eraser are taking votes away from him in all quarters. On a statewide basis, Fuller Warren's cause looks hopeless. In a few sections he seems to have quite a following and some of his University buddies are leading the bushes in his behalf, but his fervent attempt to exterminate the kind faced woodchuck has wrecked his chances as completely as she wrecks the unfortunate motorist who comes in contact with her on the highway.

Turning to the Senatorial melee, we find Andrews still in front with Fred Cone and Jerry Carter saying at his heels. I crossed Jerry's path on two occasions and heard him speak at Graceville. Like a hydrant that's been leeching for months, nobody pays much attention to him anymore. He is still making the same campaign speech he's been making for the past ten years and folks have heard it so many times it just isn't funny any more.

Under the direction of George Barz, who is "living high up on the hog" (having moved into the mansion to direct the campaign of "Brother Fred"), we find the "One clan beginning to stir itself. Throughout west Florida and in other sections as well, "Cone" lured buttons are beginning to blossom. Local workers are in hot-bonelling neighbors in an effort to convince them that "Old Stewie" is far from dead and is likely to feel "on again, like he looked 'em before."

The Attorney General's race is harder to figure out, for in some sections Watson is high man and in other Bentley, with Donnell trailing. As is usually the case in general elections, the little public interest in this race. Most folks are a lot more concerned over who is going to be their High Sheriff.

Surfacing Starts On Highway No. 26

The long delayed work on the resurfacing and topping of Road No. 26, from South Bay to Twenty Mile bend on the North New River canal, will soon be started, by the Mundy Construction Co., of Leeburg, who has been awarded the contract. The company is now bringing in equipment and will start the 13 mile stretch from Okaloosa to the Broward county line.

It will take several months to complete the contract, and the highway will be closed to all traffic until the surfacing work is completed. Office and warehouse quarters will be located at South Bay with H. E. Turner as field superintendent. That portion of the improvement in Broward county will be surfaced by the R. B. Tyler Co., of Louisville, Ky.

Land Deal Made For Four Sections.

The U. S. Sugar Corporation, this week filed deed of ownership for three sections of land which it recently purchased from the G. and Realty Co., of West Palm Beach, for $30,000.00. The sections are 18, 19 and 25 in Town 44, Range 28. Mrs. Ruby Jones of Belle Glade also purchased section 22 in the same town and range, for $5,000. This latter land will be managed by Luther Jones, her husband.

Cattle Will Share Spotlight At Fair

"Our exhibit at the Everglades Fair will, I believe, show the practical way to be made of the unmatched productivity of Glades soils in the matter of cattle fattening. Para, and other grasses which have until recently been regarded as pests are proven to be unsurpassed as grazes in finishing off beef cattle. Our own series of experiments at the Station, supported by field conditions in the Brookside Farms, and those of Hooker-Jones, have helped to teach us the things to be expected by farmers who add this project to their program of diversification.

"During the recent freeze in and on the farms, 'Rascals,' a winter grass, came through and produced green sustaining food when other forms of green feed could not be obtained. The use of this grass on winter and half-bred crosses of the ordinary Florida range, cow with pure bred bulls will be emphasized. The use of this grass in that to successfully fatten an animal you must begin with one of best type and with the capacity to utilize the food value of the grasses."

A great number of Kissimmee River Valley ranchers have been watching the cattle finishing projects in the Glades with interest and negotiations are under way at present among farmers and ranchers to take the best of the best ranges and finish them off on the Glades ranges.

Young People Hear Interesting Talks

The young people of Pahokee will long carry in their memory the visit of Misses Danforth and Phifer, of the Columbia Bible School of Columbia, S. C., who closed their week of service at the Pahokee Methodist church, in connection with a Youth's Crusade program.

These Christian women and students were capable in their work and brought gospel messages and private conferences among the youth. That were the first of the Sunday morning and evening, Miss Danforth, gave two excellent talks on "The Story of Lazarus," and "The Four Doctors."

Joe Tom Boynton With Hot Springs

Joe Tom Boynton, of Canal Point, who has been taking spring training with the Tulsa, Oklahoma, team at Sequim, Texas, has been signed as a catcher by the St. Louis Cardinals. Manager Johnson liked Joe Tom's work, and desired to keep him in hand, so sent him to Hot Springs for winter conditioning, with the local outfit.

Pete Bardin, who has been working out at West Palm Beach for the past three months, first of the St. Louis Cardinals, and the Philadelphia Phillies in Miami, as yet, has placed his name on no team contract, but may decide to do so within the next ten days.

Ancient Autos To Race At Fair

Another page of automobile history will be made on Thursday, April 11th, at the Everglades Fair when Dr. George Young and Bill Pierce race their ancient chariot, in what might easily be, their last race.

Pierce's Belle Glade Bulletin has two victories over Dr. Young's Minneapolis Hot Shot, but Dr. Young believes the Belle Glade mucklucks will rejuvenate his Jap more than enough for him to forge ahead in the race of shattering relics.

"People from all over Florida will be interested spectators as the two famous japoques race here. Although fifteen or twenty thousand people viewed the last race down Riverway Boulevard in Miami, on March 1st, Belle Glade with her Fair crowd will be outdone only in numbers, and warring already has begun in cabbage, celery, and other Glades vegetables, against Yankee cash.

NEW PACKING UNIT

The Lord Packing Company at Belle Glade, has just installed a second large sorting unit, to aid it to more speedily handle the celery and other products passing through its packing house.

Excellent celery is still being cut and shipped through this house, but lettuce has been hard hit by rain and heat, and the harvest of this leaf product will soon be coming to an end.

Activity Is Shown In Lake Vegetables

Real crop activity has hit the Glades section the past week, and cargoes by both rail and truck are rolling north in ever increasing volume.

The rains and hot sun of the past week have not helped crops a great deal and lettuce is the one crop which has been hard hit by these ravages. Lettuce continues in good demand and is bringing from $2.25 to $2.50 per cwt. Celery is bringing from $1.15 to $1.75 per cwt.

Cabbage is holding its own, with big shipments, with prices ranging from $8 to $12.50 the ton, and from $5 to $7.50 the hamper. Beans and peas came into their own during the week, although the current quality was not so good as might be desired, and prices ranged from $2.50 to $3.25 a hamper for tops. Peas, showing storm effects, were bringing from $1.50 to $2.00 the hamper. Cabbage, cauliflower, and other crops, which are experimenting with, are now harvesting this piece and more vegetable, which is bringing from 4 to 5¢ the pound, with good demand from east coast cities.

Greyhounds Run Last Race April 10

Local greyhound racing "will" come to a close on Wednesday, April 10, leaving only four more days to enjoy this thrilling sport at the Palm Beach Kennel Club until next season.

One of the most eventful racing meets in the history of local track is the record 1940 season will leave behind for it has seen some of the nation's best greyhounds racing here and also some very promising youngsters who have had that thrilled the fans with their record breaking performances. Texas Tech, Grand Sen, Roy Best, Am What Am, Billie Helen, Don't Forget, Mity Cagney and Blue Vine all two year old or younger are some of the likely newcomers who came here, with only a few months of racing or actually making their debut in local scheduling events, and quickly shot into the spotlight as the leading races of the meet.

Four of these youngsters gained a place in the annual Palm Beach Derby line up by being within the first four to finish in each of two Derby elimination races held prior to that event and are packed as "the most likely to succeed" out-of a big crop of beginners schooled here this year.

All of these outstanding youngsters and none of the seasoned veterans, favorites from last year and still holding their own in popularity against some of the younger speedsters will be seen in action at the local track in these last few days in many "hot box" efforts arranged by the Palm Beach Kennel Club officials in an effort to make this the most colorful racing week in the history of the track.

Good Crows Hear—

(continued from page 1) ucational system of Florida cannot be remedied. The Tallahassee rally is said to have been the largest political meeting ever staged in the capital.

Speaking in the rural sections, Whitehair declared that the farmers of Florida will prosper if a "buy-in-Florida spirit" is developed and encouraged. "I find that Florida is buying $60,000,000 worth of farm products from other states annually," he said. "My investigation reveals that these products can practically all be raised in Central, Western and Northern Florida. They consist largely of meat, dairy and poultry products. When I am your governor, I promise to promote such an all-Florida feeling and spirit to the best of my ability to keep these $60,000,000 at home."

The interest manifested by citizens of Franklin and Wakulla counties in Whitehair's appearances there is said to have been far greater than shown for any other candidate in the current campaign. "The commercial fishing industry has been the stepchild of the Florida legislature and state government long enough," he told them, "and when Whitehair is governor this condition is going to be changed. The fishing industry and the 25,000 people it supports needs governmental assistance and you can depend upon it that Whitehair is going to use the full power of his office to see that they get relief," he concluded. Whitehair frequently has stated that he considers "Florida's wildlife a hundred million dollar industry."
